Description of the Technical and Organizational Security Measures implemented by Service Provider:

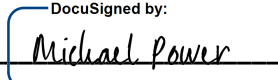

Data at Rest is protected by both disk encryption and application encryption. The database platform stores the data encrypted via SHA256 on top of which the physical disk arrays, which host the data, use a cipher of AES256 to store the data encrypted at rest.

Organizational policies which classify and emphasize the need to protect customer data have been implemented according to conventional auditing standards. Security Policies such as Least Privilege, Segregation of Duties and Information Classification policies have been implemented which limit the access and availability of customer data to essential personnel only. A robust data retention and restore framework has been implemented and undergoes regularly scheduled internal review, auditing and testing to verify customer data integrity and security.
